AUSTRALIA'S LEADING MINING MEDIA BRANDS.

Over the last twenty years maintaining and improving mine safety has become a non-negotiable characteristic of responsible and ethical mining companies throughout Australia and the broader Asia Pacific region.

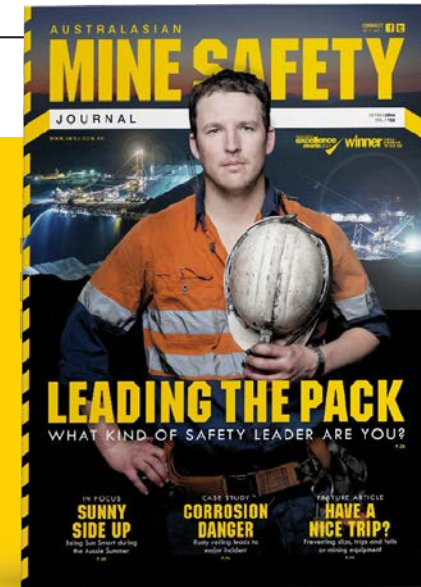

Finding current mining safety information in a timely manner is critical for mines and miners to reduce the severity of mining risks and control mining hazards.

Mining decision makers and mine personnel need relevant information from case studies, technical reports and news to implement good safety practice from a corporate and site-based perspective. Additionally, they need to quickly find credible mining equipment product and services to assist them to implement their hazard control plans.

The Australasian Mine Safety Journal specifically targets mine safety decision-makers, mine safety personnel and provides comprehensive editorial content on the current trends, case studies and activities associated with mine safety across the Asia Pacific region.

The Australasian Mine Safety Journal online has become the regions key mine safety information provider reaching more than 100K mine management, mine safety and environment professionals, academics and regulators throughout the region every month through daily online articles and news. Our quarterly print magazine provides 'evergreen' relevant mine safety content that is read by more than 25,000 key industry personnel.

If you are a leader, key decision maker or are a stakeholder in the mining industry across Australia and the Asia Pacific, the Australasian Mine Safety Journal will keep you informed and become an essential reference tool for assisting you to develop and improve mining safety programs and mine safety performance.

CONNECTING YOUR BRAND WITH MINING PURCHASERS AND INFLUENCERS.

For thirteen years Australasian Mine Safety Journal has been declared the most trusted voice for SAFETY in the Mining Industry. WHY? Because we engage and connect to diverse audiences across a rapidly changing industry. We understand mining and we understand safety...let us help you join the dots.

Quality content should be a key element of your marketing strategy. It's a necessity for every business and, if executed correctly, it's an incredibly powerful way to make connections and build relationships with new and existing customers. Why not let our gifted 'content team' tell your story through highly engaging and evocative content targeted to our audience. We know and understand what resonates with our audience, what makes them engage and want to find out more.

ENGAGING.

Our biggest challenge is taking highly technical content and recreating it into an engaging, powerful and enjoyable reading experience. Whatever it takes to reach your audience and engage them, we do it. We have partnered with some of the world's leading brands to help them connect with our audience.

CONNECTING

We're experts in delivering content that connects. With creativity at our core, our team of journalists, content experts and SEO writers all have that incredible gift to deliver a compelling story that connects with the mining and resources industry.

LONGEVITY

Recognising that great content published in print and online is a valuable 'asset', we optimise the content for SEO and engagement to deliver tangible long-term results.
